DETAILED ACTIONResponse to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments filed 7/19/2004 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. The functional limitations "high compliance" and "low compliance" do not impose any structural limitations on the claims distinguishable over the Nap et al. in view of Sahota's device. Since each balloon of Nap et al. is inherently higher compliance than a certain balloon in the art and lower compliance than a certain balloon in the art. The broadest reasonable interpretation of "high compliance" balloon or "low compliance" balloon encompasses a balloon being made from any material that is not a highest or lowest compliance material. Any angioplasty balloon or occluding balloon in the art is inherently being made from a material that is not the highest or lowest compliance material. Therefore, each balloon of Nap et al. is inherently higher compliance than a certain balloon to meet claimed limitation "high compliance blocking balloon" and lower compliance than a certain balloon to meet claimed limitation "low compliance angioplasty balloon." Furthermore, the present application does not disclose a material of high or low compliance to make it different from the balloon of Nap et al. or other balloon.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Nap et al. (5,971,955) in view of Sahota (5,160,321). Nap et al. disclose a balloon catheter for treating stenotic regions including all the limitations of the claims except for a presence of inlet and outlet openings. Sahota disclose a balloon catheter for treating stenotic regions including inlet and outlet openings (figure 8) allow blood to perfuse through and bypass the dilation balloon so as to maintain blood flow during treatment. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the time the invention was made to employ inlet and outlet openings as disclose by Sahota into Nap et al.'s catheter in order to allow blood to perfuse through and bypass the dilation balloon so as to maintain blood flow during treatment.

Conclusion

4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Stack et al. (6,165,196) disclose a perfusion occlusion apparatus. Kohish et al. disclose angioplasty/blockage balloon being made from low or high compliance material.

5. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
